

Local Price per kWh Trend of Electric Supply For Westchester NY and New York City

This graph represents the 30-day average electric supply price per kilowatt-hour for a typical residential /small commercial customer located in Westchester, NY and New York City. These prices are based on the publicly posted tariff rates and adjustments available from Con Edison.

Although this graph provides an indication of recent market trends, it does not attempt to predict long term or future market trends.

